From Our jars & tins to your table... Dish up
North Carolina's Specialty foods!

Good, from-scratch food has always been part and parcel of the Southern hospitality our area of the country is known for. Whether it's a finely-rolled Moravian cookie or a mouth-watering cheddar cheese straw with just the right hint of cayenne, such products are specialties that are three and four centuries old.

Products with a cultural history, such as a delicately aged country ham, have paved the way for the new North Carolina specialty food offerings. From smokin' salsas to candied peanuts, goat cheese to a teriyaki vinaigrette, the flavor and diversity of North Carolina's kitchens are abundant.

The North Carolina Specialty Foods Association is a dynamic organization serving more than 50 Tar Heel companies. Its mission is to actively encourage and support the promotion and appreciation of the state's specialty food, beverage and wine products.

BLUES BBQ! GOURMET SAUCES

Blues BBQ! Gourmet sauces for your soul. Blue's Carolina Pepper Sauce is intended to enhance flavors, not hide them. I have created a product that is not food specific. Carolina Pepper Sauce can be used on just about everything from meats, seafoods, vegetables, soups, salads, and even eggs! Blue's Carolina Pepper Sauce is not a hot sauce. Blue's Habanero Reserve is a true hot sauce. Reduced sugars, added garlic and fresh Red Savina Habanero Peppers are the foundation of this product. There are many sauces that contain Habanero peppers but not like this one. Blue's Habanero Pepper Sauce is smooth and uses no extracts. This sauce will not melt your brain or hurt you, but use sparingly until you understand your heat tolerance.
